Guest Performer

Songwriter Michael McNevin has a vivid brand of story telling. He grew up in the train town of Niles, CA, in the east bay hills of the SF Bay with his three older brothers. His songs read like short stories, full of heart, humor, and a keen eye for detail. Accomplished guitar work and seasoned vocals underscore the characters and places he comes across in his travels. He started his career in East Bay bars, mixing in a six-month stint in New York City's subways and streets. Michael has since logged 25 years on the U.S. songwriter circuit, playing some of the bigger music festivals around. A clip of a recent house concert, posted to Facebook.
